AMUSEMENTS

ELAINE HAMERSTEIN

AT BUTLER

Elaine Hammerstein, the charming film star, will be seen at the Butler today, appearing in "The Woman Game."

Miss Hammerstein has made rapid strides toward popularity since she joined the Selznick forces and there are many motion picture devotees who await her new releases with interest. "The Woman Game" is the creation of Leighton Osmun and Frank Dacey. It is a story which might fit any community and its characters are the kind of people who are met in "high society" from day to day. It will serve to crystallize in the minds of those who see it portrayed on the screen some of the interesting conclusion which the average man or woman has been forced to draw after even the most casual perusal of the society columns. It is a red-blooded drama—no cheap sensationalism—the question—"Should a woman play the woman's game as man plays the man's game, with every weapon at her command?" And well, just see the picture and draw your own conclusions.

Added to the feature, the latest Pathe News.

Tomorrow, beautiful Ethel Clayton, in "The 13th Commandment," a vital drama of love and life, from the noted novel by Rupert Hughes.

Coming the mammoth spectacle, "Male & Female." Do not miss it!
